WEEK OF PRAYER TO END TONIGHT

Final Sermon of Week Will be Delivered by the Rev. S. G. Huntington at Presbyterian Church.

LARGE CROWD LAST NIGHT

Speaker Declared Baptism and Unit-ing With Church Does Not Insure Salvation of Soul.

The week of prayer will close to-night with the sermon by the Rev. S. G. Huntington at the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. Mr. Huntington will speak on the subject "Personal Responsibility." A large crowd heard the Rev. A. W. Jamieson last night at the Main Street Christian church, in the fourth of the series of meetings.

The Rev. Mr. Jamieson spoke on the subject "Confessing Christ" and the sermon was one of the best of the week. The speaker brought the confessing of Christ down to the every-day walks of life. "Why did voters, during the last presidential campaign wear Taft, or Roosevelt, or Wilson buttons," asked the speaker. "It was to confess their political faith. They were not ashamed of their convictions. They wanted to influence others to think as they thought. There was but little respect for the man who had no convictions. A positive rival was respected, where a political nonentity was despised. A man was expected to be honest in his convictions and then out and out for his candidate."

"Why do all evangelists want every Christian to wear the little international evangelist's button, which simply means 'I am a Christian.' Why do we have adult Bible class buttons and Christian Endeavor pins and various other designs to indicate the line of Christian activity in which we are engaged? We want the world to know where we stand. The greatest fact in the calendar of history is the birth of Christ. The greatest concern in your personal history is the fact of your salvation. Your eternal destiny is determined by the relation you sustain to Jesus Christ."

"Heart and brain; words and acts should all harmonize with your honest convictions. You owe it to yourself, to your fellowmen, and to Christ to confess your religious faith and live up to it. Our text reveals our Saviour's thought concerning this matter. He demands confession. His confessing us before His Father is dependent upon our confessing Him before men. Let us ask what is implied in a confession of Christ?"

"It does not mean confessing our sins nor does it mean confessing our need of a Saviour. Confessing Christ is a declaration that we believe in Him; that we trust to Him; that we identify ourselves with Him; that we have surrendered our will to His will and that from now on in praise and prayer and consecrated service we worship Jesus Christ as our God in covenant. It implies a knowledge of Jesus. The more full and complete our knowledge the more intelligent will be our confession. It also implies faith in Christ, a receiving and resting upon Him along for salvation. It implies love for Jesus. The whole work was a work of love and confessing Christ implies love for Him as truly as a marriage ceremony implies love between the parties. It implies a changed attitude toward Jesus, an attitude changed in accordance with his will. A confession of Christ is recognized as evidence

TO BRING JUBILEES HERE

Effort Being Made to Arrange Concert by Colored Singers.

An effort is being made to bring the Williams Jubilee Singers here Monday, February 16. This is an organization of colored musicians which has gained renown at the four corners of the earth. They are without exception the best collection of jubilee singers on the stage today, it is said. There is a Rushville woman who is well acquainted with the management and who will use all of her persuasive power to get the date for Rushville, although it will mean a sacrifice to the organization.

"COONEY" REISER STILL AT LARGE

Case in Henry Circuit Court Recalls Knightstown Man's Escape From Pete Wagoner.

An echo of the escape of Earl ("Cooney") Reiser, of Knightstown, from Pete Wagoner, former marshal at that place, several months ago, was heard in circuit court today when the suit was set for trial, says the Newcastle Courier. Reiser was wanted on a paternity charge and when he failed to appear when the case was called, the court allowed Mary C. Shaffer, the girl in the case, $250 as a settlement.

Miss Shaffer's attorney then filed suit against Wagoner and his bondsmen, the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, for $300, but when the case was called for trial this morning Wagoner's attorneys claimed that since Reiser was insolvent and could not have paid the judgment if he had been here, the marshal could not be held liable, and the case was then dismissed. The case was later in the day re-filed and it is understood a change of venue will be asked.

MAYS INSTITUTE HELD YESTERDAY

Farmers Heard Interesting Lectures And Officers Elected For Next Year—At Arlington Today.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

The Mays institute ended last night with the election of officers. The officers elected are as follows: Claude Sears, president; Frank Huddleson, secretary; Ralph Oldham, treasurer, and Mrs. Elbert Atkins, president of the ladies' department. The institute was very successful. Maurice Douglass lectured on "Alfalfa and Other Legum Crops." The Center orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. Mrs. C. N. Lindsey of Salem, Ind., spoke on "The Care and Management of the House." The institute was attended by large crowds at all three of the sessions and was the most successful ever held in Mays. A corn show was held in connection with the institute.

The farmers of Walker and Posey townships met in joint institute today in Arlington. The same speakers that were at Mays were on the program at Arlington and a large crowd was in attendance. As was the case at Mays a corn show was held in connection.

SOMETHING NEW IN ELECTIONS

Voters May Not Know What it Means When They Receive Three Ballots Next Fall.

FIRST TIME IN SIX YEARS

All Trustees Will Retire at End of Current Year Because of Act of Legislature.

The voters of Rush county, at the general election next November, will have to give consideration to three ballots—the state, the county and the township.

There has been no township ballot since the general election of 1908. The general assembly of 1911 passed a bill which had the effect of extending the terms of all township officers then serving two years.

Under the old law, the township trustees and township assessors elected in 1908, would have retired on January 1, 1913. The trustees and assessors were before the legislature of 1911 with a bill asking for an increase in their salaries. The legislature failed to pass this bill, but, as a compromise gave both the trustees and assessors an extension of two years on their terms. The act applies to all township trustees and township assessors in the state.

The law creating the extension reads as follows: "Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Indiana, that the time for holding the election of township trustees and assessors, shall be changed from the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1912, to the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1914; and at the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of every fourth year thereafter."

It is made plain by the concluding clause of the act that trustees and assessors elected this year are not to have six-year terms. Hereafter trustees and assessors will serve only four years.

In addition to electing a trustee and an assessor next fall, each township will elect three members of a township advisory board, the terms of all township councilmen expiring January 1, 1915.

BOYS READY FOR SHORT COURSE

Dozen Rush County Youths Will Soak up Lots of Valuable Instruction Next Week.

TO BE AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY

Winners of Peoples Trust Co., Corn Contest Will Attend All of the Special Lectures.

Farmers, poultrymen, horticulturists, stockmen, corn growers and home makers from all over Indiana will attend the annual farmers' short course at Purdue university next week, but there will not be a more interested delegation than the one from Rush county, which, for the most part, will be composed of boys.

Twelve boys, one from each township, will go to the short course as the guests of the Peoples Loan & Trust Company, with all expenses paid. The boys were the winners in the corn contest held by the trust company a few weeks ago. A free scholarship was awarded the winner in each township and a grand prize of $25 in gold was awarded to Oren F. Veatch of Walker township for the best over all.

The boys who will compose the party will be: Wayne Daubenspeck of Union township, Melvin Cole of Washington, Raymond Fair of Rushville, Lytle Power of Anderson, Ralph Jones, Jackson, Oren F. Veatch of Walker, Merle Piper of Orange, Thomas Huffer of Posey, Worth Pitts of Ripley, Harold Beaver of Noble, Ophir Gwinup of Richland, and Randolph Webster of Center.

C. M. George, county superintendent of the schools, one or two officials of the trust company and the parents of some of the boys will be included in the party. They expect to realize much good from the week of practical instruction on the best method in farming.

Any person desiring to take the course of lectures may do so by registering and obtaining a registration tag. No admission or tuition fee is required. The only expense attached is the cost of living during the week. The agriculture of Purdue university will be assisted in the work of the week by a corps of over fifty special lecturers from all parts of the middle west.

RESCUE PARTIES ARE AT WORK

Wheeling, W. V., Jan. 9.—Eight miners were frightfully burned in an explosion in a mine at Moundsville, twelve miles south of this city today. All of them may die.

Four of the men were removed and rushed to a hospital, where it was said by the doctors that they would die, being burned almost to a crisp about the head and upper body.

Two more men were located in the entry pit badly burned but still alive. Rescue parties were working vigilantly to penetrate the mine farther in the search for victims. They believe that not more than eight miners were hurt.

RETAIL CLERKS' STRIKE SETTLED

Grievances Held Against Lafayette Merchants Year and a Half Satisfactorily Adjusted.

A WAGE SCALE IS AGREED ON

(By United Press.)

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—The retail clerks' strike which has been in progress here for a year and a half was satisfactorily settled here today through the efforts of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce. The merchants agreed not to discriminate against union clerks.

They also agreed on a weekly scale for apprentices of from $3 to $5 a week. The minimum price under eighteen years will be $4 a week for the first three months and $5 thereafter until the clerks work warrants an increase. Saturday night work will be continued, but the clerks are to be allowed five full holidays a year.

ARLINGTON DEFEATED.

The Rushville Specials defeated the Arlington Wonders by a score of 19 to 11. The game was fast and interesting from start to finish. The Wonders will play a return game here January 22d, and the locals expect to win in the same way. The second team won by a score of 14 to 4.

Word was received here this morning that George Newmans of Aurora, Ind., father of Mrs. Richard Williams, was in a serious condition and was not expected to live. Mrs. Williams has gone to Aurora.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE CHARGES

Called Today at Terre Haute by Judge C. M. Fortune to Investigate New Mayor's Acts.

JOE ROACH MAKES THE CHARGE

Says There Was a Corrupt Conspiracy to Dismiss Two City Policemen.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—A special grand jury to probe the charges of corrupt conspiracy against the new mayor, Donn M. Roberts, was today ordered by Judge C. M. Fortune of the Vigo circuit court to be drawn tomorrow. The grand jury will go into session Monday.

Attorney Joe Roach, who, in obtaining a restraining order for two policemen against discharge by Mayor Roberts, made the charges of corrupt conspiracy, was appointed special prosecutor to have charge of the investigation. Henry N. Spaan, a noted lawyer of Indianapolis, was mentioned as likely to be engaged as a special prosecutor also.

The fact that Crawford Fairbanks, millionaire backer of Mayor Roberts, left for Jamaica a week in advance of his announced schedule, is taken here to mean that Roberts can not count on the support of the wealthy brewer any longer.

TO ELECT MARSHAL.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]
Knightstown, Ind., Jan. 9.—A meeting of the town board will be held next Monday night to elect a town marshal as Lewis Ramsey, a Democrat, elected last fall, has refused to qualify, as he thinks the salary too small. It is probable that a Republican will be appointed to fill that place as the town board is of that political complexion.

TO INVESTIGATE PACKERS.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 9.—An investigation to ascertain whether Chicago packers are controlling the importation of Argentina beef has been started by the department of justice, according to assistant Attorney General Todd. He refused to say what action was contemplated or how the investigation would be made.

WEAK KIDNEYS OFTEN THE RESULT OF OVERWORK

On several occasions I have been unable to work and suffered severe pains in the back, due to my kidneys. I called on a doctor of Ripon, Wis., but received no relief.

I tried Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which gave me instant relief. I was then able to resume work. Swamp-Root is the only relief I can get from kidney disease which I am subject to in the spring of the year. I am writing this testimonial through my own free will that sufferers of kidney and bladder diseases will know of the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root. I recommend Dr. Kilmer's swamp-Root whenever I can and always have a bottle of Swamp-Root in my home.

I purchased Swamp-Root of Mr. C. J. Burnside, Druggist, of 202 Main Street, Ripon, Wis.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS J. LYNCH,
525 Newbury Street, Ripon, Wis.
I have read the above statement that Thomas J. Lynch bought Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root at my store and made oath the above statement is true in substance and fact.
E. J. Burnside,
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1911.

"Back to Farm" Excuse.

When Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, said a few days ago "all sorts of evils of immoral character attend city life the world over," he said what everyone who is informed must admit. "The great cities of the world," he said, "are all the time affording the means of their own destruction. It is not practicable to bring up children in the big cities because of the moral dangers that exist in them."

These words only point out the dangers; but Dr. Eliot does not leave us without suggesting the need of seeking a remedy for existing evils. "If men of foresight and intelligence," he continues, "do not find the remedy, I foresee a terrible physical, within the next 100 years, similar to that existing in the English factory cities today. We must struggle against it."

These facts, then, afford ample excuse for the many movements under way to keep young people in the country and on the farms. These movements demand the most enthusiastic support and the wisest direction. To the citizens of rural communities this means that they must improve conditions and increase the opportunities and attractions of rural life until they are such as to offset those now thought to be afforded by the city.

War and Peace.

The year of 1913 has been one of international strain and turmoil. The bright hopes entertained a few years ago of the final passing of international bloodshed have been roughly shocked. The year made a tragic and deadly addition to history in the war among the Balkan allies. While it closed with peace accomplished, yet all feel that it is merely a stepping for breath.

In our own continent, anarchy has ruled in Mexico, and the end is not in sight. The world staggers under the burden of costly armament. It is perhaps the greatest single cause of high cost of living today. Yet while the great powers of Europe decline to treat with each other on the business-like basis of peaceful diplomacy, there can be no disarming.

The one bright spot in all this carnage of blood, is that cruel old Turkey was driven out of lands she had terrorized and exhausted for 500 years. And it must be that there are internal forces of business and conservatism even in Mexico that will soon demand that the nation cease destroying its own resources.

They are slapping Uncle Sam's face down in the Mexican theaters but the old gentleman still refuses to fight with refractory infants.

PREPARES FOR EMERGENCIES

United States Orders 400 Marines in Panama to the East Coast of Mexico.

WHAT THIS MAY INDICATE

Wilson Administration Plans More
Aggressive Policy in Mexican Affairs, it is Believed.

Washington, Jan. 9.—A more aggressive policy on the part of the Wilson administration in dealing with the Mexican situation is indicated in an order issued by the secretary of the navy, who has ordered that 400 marines stationed on the Isthmus of Panama be transferred to the east coast of Mexico.

The announcement of this doubling of the force of marines strengthened the growing impression that the administration is preparing for the adoption of a practical policy to take the place of the present attitude of waiting for President Huerta to yield to the desire of President Wilson for his elimination from the scene. Complying with suggestions made by President Wilson, little has been heard in congress for months about Mexico. Lately members of congress have expressed impatience over the administration's Mexican policy.

That the ordering of the marines to the east coast of Mexico was decided upon short notice was obvious from the fact that the battleship Minnesota, which left for Mexico early in the week is to be deflected from her present course by wireless and will proceed instead to Colon, Panama. There she will take on board the 400 marines and convey them to Vera Cruz, where they will be distributed among the battleships at that point and at Tampico. The total force of the marines on the east coast of Mexico available for landing parties at short notice will be about 850 men, there being about 450 already present on the ships. On Saturday of this week, however, all battleships now in commission and not either in dock or already in Mexico, will sail for Porto Rico for the annual winter war games and exercises. The fleet will co-operate with a marine force now enroute there, which consists of about 2,000 men, or practically all those available for such duty on the Atlantic coast.

The impression has been growing here that John Lind made a pessimistic report on conditions in Mexico on the occasion of his recent conference at sea with President Wilson. Private advices received from Vera Cruz and elsewhere in Mexico from time to time have tended to indicate that Lind was beginning to hold views on Mexico and the duty of the United States more like those of Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, than those of the president and Secretary Bryan.

PREPARING FOR AN ATTACK

Villa's Forces Again Gathering Before
Belcaugured City.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 9.—Pancho Villa and his rebel reinforcements, with ample ammunition, have passed through Lamula Pass. The rebel general is preparing to renew the attack on Ojinaga, but just when the attack will start is uncertain.

The federalists sent out skirmishers in the direction of the rebel camp upon receiving a report that the rebels were advancing. The rebels have sent nearly a hundred wounded to this side of the river. This forced the rebel officers to appeal for more help. Colonel Cully, a federal commander, who died in the hospital here, declared that his own men shot him on the battlefield.

That the rebels received a severe setback when they withdrew on Monday is an established fact. The federalists from their entrenched position did great damage to the rebel ranks, besides capturing some of the rebel artillery. The rebels wasted much of their ammunition and the capture by the federalists of two auto loads of munitions of war was really what forced the rebel artillery to quit the siege of Ojinaga until it could get more supplies.

General Mancilla of the federal forces, who because of illness, came to this side and surrendered to United States troops, came without arms and will return to Ojinaga as soon as he convalesces. He may be permitted to go to El Paso for a time. Eight other federal generals are left in Ojinaga. The rebels have not yet commenced any aeroplane scouting, although they declare they have smuggled one over the river. They say it will be used to drop bombs on Ojinaga when the battle reopens, but their work of this character at Guayamas was a failure.

Track Walker Killed.

Peru, Ind., Jan. 9.—W. W. Stocking, age 25, was run down by a switch engine and killed when walking on the track. He was on his way to the passenger station to meet his wife. Stocking was an employee of the Nabash railroad.

POINTS TO VALUE OF OWNERSHIP

S. W. Brookhart of Washington Has Embryonic Organization Looking
to Control of Utilities.

MOVEMENT IS NATION-WIDE

Purpose of Organization is Investigation,
Not Agitation.—To Learn Facts First.

Washington, Jan. 9.—A state-wide organization and expansion later into a nation-wide movement for government ownership of the great public service corporations notably the railroads and the telephone and telegraph, is to be planned here within a few days. S. W. Brookhart, of Washington, is in charge of the embryonic organization. The fact that the movement is to become nation-wide, and that the association will delve into every phase of the government ownership plan is of deepest interest to everyone. Col. Brookhart today explained his organization plans in the following article exclusively written for the United Press:

BY S. W. BROOKHART.

The purpose of this organization, is investigation and not agitation. It will first learn the facts and then give them publicity. It believes the American people are entitled to know the truth about both sides of the great questions of public ownership of public utilities. Its scope will not be limited to the railroads, but it will include all public utilities. In fact, the first and only active steps its members have already taken are for the investigation of government ownership of telegraph and telephones. Municipal utilities will receive immediate attention, and the great question of government ownership of the railroads in all its phases will be divided and classified, and assigned to different members for investigation and report.

The need of an organization of this kind is apparent to every thoughtful person. Already private ownership has many organizations and many organs that give great and constant publicity to the advantages of private ownership. This information is exceedingly partisan. It often omits so much of the truth, or adopts a construction so foreign to the real facts, that it positively misleads or deceives public thought. Immense sums of money are spent in disseminating this class of literature all over the United States, and there is no organization anywhere to combat it or present the whole truth.

It has been said that the transportation question has never been settled anywhere in the world except by public ownership. It is likewise said that it is a settled question in every country of the world where public ownership prevails. It is also true that public ownership does prevail in three-fourth of the countries of the world. England and the United States are the only countries of the first class not adopting it. These facts, together with the further fact that the railroads are constantly demanding increased rates, in spite of the enormous increase in business, have presented the question of government ownership to the American people as a live issue. They are a careful and a cautious people. They will not advance in the dark. Up to the present time, they only have glimpses of the light.

Occasionally a great railroad man like D. F. Yoakum of the Frisco admits they would save 200 million dollars per year upon the item of interest alone. Then they say, if the government is so much better than the credit of private corporations why not capitalize all the railroads on this good credit and save all the net earnings and all the unearned increment which, added to the interest saving, would amount to more than 600 dollars per year? Is private ownership earning this heavy toll?

Having once adopted the interrogation point as an emblem, the American people are now beginning to ask many questions. If private

CHAPTER XVI. An Awakening.

HE was in no more satisfactory frame of mind when, on the next afternoon, he shouldered his gun and set out for the country. He went directly to the fairy pool, and waited there in a very fever of anxiety. Despite the coolness and peace of the place, he felt his pulses throb and his face burn. If she came, it would mean everything to him. If she stayed away—why, then he would have to believe that after all the real Gertrudis Garavel had spoken last night at the opera. The sound of a voice shot through his troubled thoughts like a beam of sunlight through a dark room.

"Oh, Senor Antonio! How you startled me!"

Instantly his self possession came back. He felt relieved and gay.

"Good afternoon, queen!" He rose and bowed politely. "I thought I saw one underneath the waterfall just now."

"Who would have expected you to be here?" she cried, with an extreme and obviously counterfeit amazement that filled him with delight.

"I'm lost," he declared; then, after one look into her eyes, he added, "Absolutely, utterly, irretrievably lost. Won't you sit down?"

"Oh, Senor Antonio! How you startled me."

"Since we have met quite by accident, perhaps it would not be so very improper," she laughed mischievously and settled uncertainly beside him like a butterfly just alighting, ready to take flight again on the instant.

"Perhaps I can help you to find your way, senor," she said, with ingenuous politeness.

"You are the only one who can, Miss Garavel. I don't know that I ever told you, but I'm in love."

"Indeed?"

"I am the most miserably happy person in the world, for I have just this moment begun to believe that the young lady likes me a little bit."

"Oh! But I forgot—the real reason why I came. I have something I must tell you."

"All right. But honestly now, didn't you want to come?"

She turned upon him in a little burst of passion. "Yes!" she cried. "Of course I did! I wished to come, madly, senor. It makes my heart patter, like that"—she made her little fingers "patter"—"to be wooed even by a Yankee. But I do not love you in the least. Oh no! Even if I wished to do so, there are too many reasons why I could not, and when I explain you will understand."

"Ah, it is not too sure! He is of fine family, he is rich, he is handsome. Not possibly could I care for any man who was not all of those. All my life I have thought him a very sweet gentleman, and for a long time it has been agreed that I should be his wife. There are so many reasons why I should say yes."

"You haven't mentioned any that would be binding in law."

"My father's wish. Is not that sufficient?"

"You disregarded that once."

"That was but a flutter. All the time

I knew I should be Ramon's wife when the time arrived. Perhaps I could refuse to wed a man my father chose for me, but no nice Spanish girl would dare to wed a man her father did not like. Do you see?"

"But it's no cinch your father won't positively hunger for me once we get chummy."

"You are too different, you disregard our customs, you are bold. You continue to come here against my wishes, which no Spanish gentleman would dare to do."

"Oh, I'm no Spanish gentleman. I'm just an emotional blond. But I'm bound to marry you. Let's arrange the details. Shall it be a church wedding?"

She laughed deliciously. "What a nice game it is we have played! But now I must talk seriously."

"You witch!" he breathed. "Do you think I could ever give you up?"

She checked him gravely. "Truly it was just a game, and yet it was not altogether so either. But here is what I came to say. The strangest thing has happened. Not until last night after the opera did I even dream of it, and even now I cannot believe. Oh, I am so proud! Coming home from the theater my father told me—oh, the most wonderful thing. I promised very faithfully not to tell, so—he is to be the next president—of—Panama."

"Pres"—Anthony stared at her in frank amazement. "Why, I thought Old Man Alfarez?"

"It seems your country does not like him because he hates Americans—see? Now that you know the truth you must see at once that by no means could I marry to a person like you."

"Why not?"

"Oh! Don't you understand? I shall be the finest lady in the republic. All the men will adore me. I will have suitors—not one or two as now, but many. My father will be the most famous man of all the republic—perhaps in the whole world, I don't know."

"I don't think it will make any difference with him when he knows who I am. I'll tackle your father, and I'll promise to vote for him."

"You are very funny," she gazed at him seriously, one tiny foot curled under her, her chin nestling into her palm.

"Do you love me?"

"Not one single speck. I merely like you to make love at me and cause my heart to jump."

The little hypocrite continued to voice words of warning and denial, though her eyes invited him, and for a long time they continued this delightful play of pleading and evasion. But at last Chiquita jumped up with a great appearance of alarm.

"Heavens, the time!" she cried. "I have stayed too long by much. Stephanie will miss me."

He rose and stretched out his hand as if to hold her.

"Shall I come again tomorrow?"

She grew suddenly earnest.

"No, no, senor. That is something you should not ask. If ever we are to meet again it must be with my father's consent. Please! Do not urge, for truly I would have to refuse." She let her palm rest in his an instant, and her cheek went scarlet as he pressed it to his lips. Then she said: "Go, Mr. Brazen One. How greatly it surprised me to find you here I cannot say. It gave me such a start! And, Senor Antonio—my father may be found any day at his bank." Before he could detain her she was gone, flitting up the path with just one flashing smile of mischief over her shoulder.

Anthony went home with his head in the clouds. All his doubts were now at rest; for while Chiquita had stubbornly denied him all encouragement, he felt sure that her heart had answered. It was in the highest spirits, therefore, that he opened a letter he found awaiting him and read as follows:

Dear Kirk—I hope you are heartily sick of yourself and ready to do something decent for a change. Knowing your aristocratic habits as I do, I realize you must owe a lot of money by this time, and your new friends must be getting tired of you. I have been expecting you to draw on me daily and am taking this occasion to warn you in your own expensively acquired college English that "there is nothing doing"—except upon one condition. If you will agree to behave yourself in future I will pay your debts, send you west and give you a job as operator at $40 a month. But you will go where I send you, and you will stay where you are put. I will do the thinking for both of us and judge of your associates. Maybe if you prove to be any good at all I will arrange with the police to let you spend your vacations in "that dear New York" which still shows signs of your red paint brush. I would be pleased to have an apology by return mail, so that I may meet you in New Orleans and start you off once more on the road to decency and self respect. You will never be a success at anything, but I am always ready to do my duty. This is my last offer, and if you refuse you may distinctly and definitely go to the devil. As ever your loving father,

DARWIN K. ANTHONY.

P. S.—I can get good operators for $30 a month. The extra $10 is pure sentiment.

Spurred by his present exhilaration, Kirk wrote an answer, which he read with a good deal of satisfaction before sealing it up:

Dear Dad—You affectionate letter with the kind offer to take charge of a siding out in the Dakotas is at hand. I would like to help you along with your business, but I have to raise that salary a bit, and you'll have to raise that salary a bit. I am drawing $25 a month at present.arters furnished and promotion promised. I have made some good investments, and there are no debts to settle. Inclosed find my last bank statement, which will doubtless prove a great disappointment to you.

If you need a good master of transportation I would be pleased to consider an offer at any time, provided the salary is satisfactory, but your proposal to edit my acquaintances is out of the question. My decency and self respect are doing well, thank you, and I like the climate.

The salary would have to be about $6,000 a year. As always your devoted and obedient son,

KIRK.

P. S.—I would not care to locate farther west than Buffalo. My wife might not like it.

Kirk lost no time in calling at the bank, but was disappointed to learn that Senor Andres Garavel had left the city for an unexpected business tour of the provinces and would not return for at least two weeks.

In the days that followed he saw nothing of Gertrudis, but a great deal of Edith Cortlandt. She had redeemed her promise of getting him a good horse—something rare in this country—and he was grateful for the exercise, which came as a welcome relief from his indoor toil. Soon their old friendly intercourse was going on as if it had never been interrupted.

As for Edith, this semipublic intimacy came to be quite as much a pain as a pleasure to her. During these past few weeks she had been plunged in a mental turmoil, the signs of which she had concealed with difficulty. She had fought with herself; she had tried to reason; she had marshaled her pride, but all in vain. At last she awoke to the terrifying certainty that she was in love with Kirk.

She began to look upon her husband with a quickened curiosity, and found him a stranger. For years she had made allowance for his weaknesses, ignoring them as she ignored his virtues, but never before had he appeared so colorless, so insignificant, above all so alien. She had barely tolerated him hitherto, but now she began to despise him.

If Cortlandt was aware of her change of feeling and its cause, his method of dealing with her showed some keenness. Silent contempt was what she could least endure from him of all men; yet this was just what his manner toward her expressed—if it expressed anything.

Even if he did suspect, what then? It was no affair of his; she was her own mistress. She had given him all he possessed, she had made a man of him. He was her creature, and had no rights beyond what she chose to give. They saw less and less of each other. Only before others, or at their frequent political councils, were they quite the same as they had been.

Of Anthony, on the other hand, she arranged to see more than ever, flattering him by a new deference in her manner, making him feel always at ease with her. In their frequent rides they covered most of the roads about the city, even to the ruins of old Panama. Then they began to explore the bypaths and trails.

One afternoon they turned into an unfrequented road that led off to the jungle from the main highway, walking their horses while they marveled at the beauty of the foliage. They burst out into a rocky glen, where a spring of clear water bubbled forth.

"What a discovery!" exclaimed Edith. "Help me down, please. I'm going to drink."

Kirk dismounted and lent her a hand. The horses snorted appreciatively and, stepping forward, thrust their soft muzzles eagerly into the stream, then fell to browsing upon the tender leaves at their shoulders.

Edith quenched her thirst, shook the cramp from her limbs and said: "Some time we will have to see where this road leads. There may be more surprises beyond." She broke a flower from its stem and fastened it in Kirk's buttonhole while he gazed down at her with friendly eyes.

"You're looking awfully well lately," he declared.

Gazing up, she met his gaze and held it for an instant. Something in her look gave him a little thrill of embarrassment.

"I think I'll give Marquis and Gyp their dessert," he said and, turning aside, began to gather a handful of the greenest leaves. The instant his eyes were off her she took the horses by their bridles, swung them about and with a sharp blow of her riding crop sent them snorting and clattering down the trail. Kirk wheeled barely in time to see them disappearing.

"Say, why did you do that?" he asked.

MINISTER TELLS HOW TO BE SAVED

Must Love God and Your Neighbor, According to Rev. S. C. Wicks of Indianapolis.

LIFE MUST BE UP TO LEVEL.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—“What shall I do to be saved?” This question is answered by the Rev. S. C. Wicks, Unitarian, whose sermonettes printed in the newspapers here join with the printed appeals of the Church Federation in an evangelistic movement remarkable in many ways.

“What do you love?” asks Rev. Wicks in reply. “Do you love God and your neighbor? Do you love truth and goodness and justice? Are you striving to bring your life up to these levels?”

“Then you are saved. You are not saved from some hell in a future life; you are not rewarded by a heaven at some future time. But you are saved from the hells of selfishness, hate, cruelty, injustice and lust. You have not entered a heaven, but a heaven has entered you.

“Each must find the truth for himself. No church, no creed, no book, no teacher can think for us. Truth is not given. It must be earned.”

NOW LOOK FORWARD TO CONVENTIONS

Political Gossip Turned to Congressional Fights Following Changes in City Administrations.

SOME OPPOSITION TO SEVERAL

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—With the sensations in the changes in city administrations this week out of the way, political gossip is turning to the congressional campaigns next fall. The nominating conventions will come much earlier and even before convention time the fight for place will be pretty hot.

Two Indiana Democratic congressmen have forceful opposition for re-nomination—William A. Cullop of Vincennes and Finly Gray of Connersville. There have been hints also of opposition to Congressman Henry A. Barnhart of Rochester, W. E. Cox of Jasper and Charles Lieb of Rockport. But Barnhart is well thought of at Washington and is regarded as one of the leaders of the Indiana delegation. And Democratic leaders in the third and first districts seem to be strong for Cox and Lieb, respectively.

The remainder of the thirteen Indiana Democratic congressmen are apparently moving along smoothly to renominations. The state organization of the Democratic party, in most every case backing the present congressmen, has aided them in securing a renomination by setting early dates for the nominating conventions. This was notable in the case of Representative Charles A. Korbly, whose brother, Bernard Korbly, state Democratic chairman, called the Seventh district convention to meet here tomorrow.

The Ladies of the First Baptist church will hold an exchange Saturday at the John B. Morris Hardware Store. 259t1.

PLACES BURDEN ON PROPRIETOR

Supreme Court Finds True Weights and Measures Must be Used in Indiana Merchandising.

CASE WAS TO TEST NEW LAW

Proprietor Will Suffer Penalty if he Allows Deceptive Devices in His Place.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—The supreme court has reversed the Miami circuit court for instructing the jury to acquit Hugh McCaffrey of the charge of selling short measure of potatoes. The evidence was sufficient to show McCaffrey was owner of McCaffrey & Co. department store at Peru, and that Harvey G. Boyd bought potatoes in the store, ordering a peck and paying for a peck, although he only received eleven pounds of potatoes.

The court says “the proprietor of a store must know that no false weights or measures are being used in his business, and failing to do so must suffer penalty.” The court says that there being sufficient evidence from which the jury might have inferred that the defendant was owner of the store the question should have been left to the jury.

The case was prosecuted and appealed as a test of the new law requiring the sale of potatoes by weight, but the case coming up on a peremptory instruction to the jury, the supreme court only decided the matters presented for decision by the action of the trial court.

FINDING TO BE DEFERRED

It Will Be a Month Before Arbitration Decision Is Announced.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—It will be at least a month before the public service commission will be ready to announce its decision in the Indianapolis streetcar controversy, according to an estimate made by Chairman Duncan of the time which will be required to review the evidence and prepare a finding.

The final arguments of attorneys have been heard, but it is doubtful whether the commission, because of the work which has accumulated since the hearing began, Dec. 4, will give immediate consideration to the streetcar matter. Other business of importance must be disposed of first.

He said that up to this time no board of arbitration has outlined the principles which governed the reaching of its decisions, and he predicted that there will be a greater willingness to arbitrate industrial differences when reasonable assurances are given of the principles which are to be observed in the conduct of hearings.

FOUL PLAY NOW SUSPECTED

Man Found Dying in Alley Probable Victim of Thugs.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—John Harvey, age forty-two; Earnest Loman, age twenty-six, and Ernest Linder, age twenty-five, were arrested in connection with the robbery and death of James W. Simpson, of Redkey, who was found dying in an alley here December 21. The police say that Loman confessed the three men robbed Simpson. He says that the robbery was committed in a saloon when it was found that Simpson had $200 in money, according to the police.

Simpson was first believed to have died of paralysis. Prosecutor Henneger will order the body of Simpson exhumed for post mortem examination. The police are inclined to believe “knockout drops” were given to Simpson and if analysis proves that a drug was used charges of murder will be placed against the three men.

MILROY MAN CAUGHT IN A RESORT RAID

Goldia Carr is Arrested Thursday Night in Indianapolis With Seven Others.

ALL ARE RELEASED ON BOND

[Special to the Daily Republican.]
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—One of the four men arrested in a raid on an East Court street resort last night gave his name as Goldia Carr, Milroy, Indiana. Along with the men were arrested three women inmates and its keeper, Molly Grant, who is charged with conducting a resort.
The four men and three women were charged with statutory offenses and all released on bond. Two of the women gave their addresses as that of the resort where they were caught and the other in North Illinois street.
The information which caused the raid was furnished by a boy sixteen years old who said he had stayed all night at the house.

There is a man named Goldia Carr at Milroy. The Greensburg News recounts the fact that Thursday he passed through Greensburg on his way to Forest Hill to look after business on his farm. The News further says that Mrs. Carr, who has been in precocious health for some time, is slightly improved.

TALKS POLITICS TO CONGRESSMEN

Mrs. Mary Ritter Beard Leaves the Beaten Paths in Addressing Committee at Washington.

FORMERLY OF INDIANAPOLIS

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—Woman suf-fragists of Indiana are delighted at reports of the activity of Mrs. Mary Ritter Baird, daughter of the late Col. Eli Ritter of this city, in suffrage circles in the East. She is the wife of Prof. Charles A. Beard of Columbia university, New York City, and at the recent hearing before the house rules committee in Washington, made what the congressmen declare the most effective speech on the woman's appeal for the constitutional amendment.

Mrs. Baird left the beaten paths and made a "hit" with the congressmen by talking politics. She showed that the committee majority could not afford, as Democrats, to risk af-fronting the women voters in the suffrage states and the friends of the amendment in many other states by reporting adversely on the resolution submitting the amendment to the states.

That because the Senate suffrage committee had unanimously reported the resolution favorably, Mrs. Baird argued, the house could do no less or risk being called more reactionary than the senate. Popular election of senators, she pointed out, tended to equal the representative character of the two houses and the prestige of the lower house in popular esteem would be endangered by the committee's adverse action on the suffrage amendment.

STOCKHOLDERS TAKE THE CASE TO COURT

Big Stock Distribution Plan
May Be Checked.

New York, Jan. 9.—In the supreme court suit has been filed by holders of 1,950 shares of preferred stock of the Union Pacific to enjoin the Union's proposed distribution of its Baltimore and Ohio stock to its common stock holders. The suit was filed immediately after the board of directors of the Union Pacific had ratified the executive committee recommendation for the stock distribution.

Court action against the proposed distribution of Union Pacific's $82-067,800 Baltimore and Ohio stock to holders of the common, excluding the preferred, was threatened as soon as the plan was announced. It has been expected by the directors.

Action is brought for a permanent injunction as well as a temporary injunction pending the hearing. It is based on the allegation that the Baltimore and Ohio stock of the Union Pacific represents capital investment of the company and fixed assets, not earnings. As such, it is claimed, the preferred stockholders are entitled to share in the distribution according to their right as provided in their agreement with the company to share equally with the common in any distribution of assets.

Other holders of preferred are invited to join the suit, though it is understood that the biggest holders of preferred stock will not take action against the proposed distribution to the common stockholders. Jacob S.
Schiff and Mrs. E. H. Harriman are the largest holders of the preferred.

GENERAL BUCKNER IS DEAD AT GLEN LILY

Passing of One of South's Most Interesting Figures.

Mumfordsville, Ky., Jan. 9.—General
Simon Bolivar Buckner, former governor of Kentucky, is dead at his home here in his ninetieth year. General Buckner was born in Hart county, Kentucky. In the early 40's he got a cadet-ship at West Point, graduating in 1844.
Three years after that he was a professor at the academy. He served with distinction in the Mexican war, where he was wounded, and then returned to West Point for another professorship.

At the outbreak of the civil war he was made commander of the state guard of Kentucky and in 1861 he issued an address to the people calling upon them to take up arms against the Union. He commanded a Confederate brigade at the battle of Fort Donelson, surrendering the fort to General Grant.
He was in prison at Fort Warren,
Boston, until exchanged in August, 1862. He subsequently commanded a division in General Bragg's army in Tennessee.

General Buckner was one of the candidates of the Democratic party for vice president in 1896, running on the ticket with Senator John M. Palmer of Illinois, candidate for president.
Since the campaign of that year the general had been living at Glen Lily, his estate in Hart county.

LUNATIC SHOOTS AT PRESIDENT'S HOUSE

Wildest Excitement in Paris Today
When Attempt on Official's Life Was Made.

RETIRE VALET IS CAPTURED.

(By United Press.)

Paris, Jan. 9.—An armed lunatic caused the wildest excitement today throughout Paris when he made a demonstration in front of President Poincare's official residence. He fired four wild shots when policemen cornered him, and after a chase of several blocks, he injured himself seriously when he attempted to disembowel himself.

Ferdinand Arronis is the man's name, and he carried letters in which he refers to himself as the king of France. He left his post as a valet a month ago. Thousands of people hurried to the palace after many rumors were circulated, and refused to leave until they were assured the president was unharmed. The president knew nothing of the affair until it was all over.

FURNISH EXPERT TO TEST CATTLE

Purdue University Evolves Unique
Scheme For Help of Farmers
Which Costs Nothing.

BEING TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF

Purdue university has evolved a unique scheme for the help of farmers in the testing of cows without cost to their owners, from which many Rush county farmers could profit. The offer has been taken advantage of in many places. By the arrangements made, a dairy expert will come from Purdue once a month and make the rounds of all owners of cows who wish to have an expert test made of each cow's milk and have her rations passed upon. Then at regular intervals the expert will submit a cost sheet for each cow showing just what it is costing to care for her and just what she is paying.

The only expense the farmer will incur for this service will be for taking the expert to the next man using his service and boarding him while he is at his farm. All bills for railroad fare hotel bills and similar expenses will be met by the extension department.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 9.—Harry Thaw in all probability will be released on bail here before tomorrow night. Two members of the sanity commission said today pending settlement of the case. They went to Boston today to appeal to the other members of the commission who is ill. The failure of William T. Jerome of New York to produce evidence against Thaw before the commission is expected to make a decision in Thaw's favor almost certain. All guards have testified they thought if he were freed on bail, it would not be a menace to the community.

of conversion and now notice how Jesus wants us to confess Him.

"The Bible does not say anything about our wearing a button but the Bible does tell us how we are to confess Christ. It must be with the mouth. 'With the heart man believeth—with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.' 'Let God's redeemed say so.' But the New Testament recognizes a special service and a new relationship established in connection with confessing Christ. 'As many as believed were baptized and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.' Repentance for sin, forsaking of sin, a confession with the mouth a receiving of baptism and a uniting with the church are all recognized in connection with that which we call confessing Christ."

In speaking of the relation between the confessing of Christ and salvation the Rev. Mr. Jamieson declared that baptism is not a saving act and uniting with the church does not insure salvation of the soul. "There are doubtless unsaved people in all churches as there was as unsaved man in the little company of twelve that accompanied our Saviour," said the speaker.

"If you are unwilling to confess Christ, there is need that you take the first steps in getting right with God, for Jesus will not confess as His those who refuse to confess Him here and now. Following the confession Christ expects us to confess Him in daily life. You are not only required to make a good confession but to make your confession good."

WEEK OF PRAYER TO END TONIGHT

Final Sermon of Week Will be Delivered by the Rev. S. G. Huntington at Presbyterian Church.

LARGE CROWD LAST NIGHT

Speaker Declared Baptism and Uniting With Church Does Not Insure Salvation of Soul.

The week of prayer will close tonight with the sermon by the Rev. S. G. Huntington at the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. Mr. Huntington will speak on the subject "Personal Responsibility." A large crowd heard the Rev. A. W. Jamieson last night at the Main Street Christian church, in the fourth of the series of meetings.

The Rev. Mr. Jamieson spoke on the subject "Confessing Christ" and the sermon was one of the best of the week. The speaker brought the confessing of Christ down to the every-day walks of life. "Why did voters, during the last presidential campaign wear Taft, or Roosevelt, or Wilson buttons," asked the speaker. "It was to confess their political faith. They were not ashamed of their convictions. They wanted to influence others to think as they thought. There was but little respect for the man who had no convictions. A positive rival was respected, where a political nonentity was despised. A man was expected to be honest in his convictions and then out and out for his candidate."

"Heart and brain; words and acts should all harmonize with your honest convictions. You owe it to yourself, to your fellowmen, and to Christ to confess your religious faith and live up to it. Our text reveals our Saviour's thought concerning this matter. He demands confession. His confessing us before His Father is dependent upon our confessing Him before men. Let us ask what is implied in a confession of Christ?"

"It does not mean confessing our sins nor does it mean confessing our need of a Saviour. Confessing Christ is a declaration that we believe in Him; that we trust to Him; that we identify ourselves with Him; that we have surrendered our will to His will and that from now on in praise and prayer and consecrated service we worship Jesus Christ as our God in covenant. It implies a knowledge of Jesus. The more full and complete our knowledge the more intelligent will be our confession. It also implies faith in Christ, a receiving and resting upon Him alone for salvation. It implies love for Jesus. The whole work was a work of love and confessing Christ implies love for Him as truly as a marriage ceremony implies love between the parties. It implies a changed attitude toward Jesus, an attitude changed in accordance with his will. A confession of Christ is recognized as evidence

Effort Being Made to Arrange Concert by Colored Singers.

An effort is being made to bring the Williams Jubilee Singers here Monday, February 16. This is an organization of colored musicians which has gained renown at the four corners of the earth. There is a Rushville woman who is well acquainted with the management and who will use all of her persuasive power to get the date for Rushville, although it will mean a sacrifice to the organization.

"COONEY" REISER STILL AT LARGE

Case in Henry Circuit Court Recalls Knightstown Man's Escape From Pete Wagoner.

An echo of the escape of Earl ("Cooney") Reiser, of Knightstown, from Pete Wagoner, former marshal at that place, several months ago, was heard in circuit court today when the suit was set for trial, says the Newcastle Courier. Reiser was wanted on a paternity charge and when he failed to appear when the case was called, the court allowed Mary C. Shaffer, the girl in the case, $250 as a settlement.

Miss Shaffer's attorney then filed suit against Wagoner and his bondsmen, the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, for $300, but when the case was called for trial this morning Wagoner's attorneys claimed that since Reiser was insolvent and could not have paid the judgment if he had been here, the marshal could not be held liable, and the case was then dismissed. The case was later in the day re-filed and it is understood a change of venue will be asked.

MAYS INSTITUTE HELD YESTERDAY

Farmers Heard Interesting Lectures And Officers Elected For Next Year—At Arlington Today.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

The Mays institute ended last night with the election of officers. The officers elected are as follows: Claude Sears, president; Frank Huddleson, secretary; Ralph Oldham, treasurer, and Mrs. Elbert Atkins, president of the ladies' department. The institute was very successful. Maurice Douglass lectured on "Alfalfa and Other Legum Crops." The Center orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. Mrs. C. N. Lindsey of Salem, Ind., spoke on "The Care and Management of the House." The institute was attended by large crowds at all three of the sessions and was the most successful ever held in Mays. A corn show was held in connection with the institute.

The farmers of Walker and Posey townships met in joint institute today in Arlington. The same speakers that were at Mays were on the program at Arlington and a large crowd was in attendance. As was the case at Mays a corn show was held in connection.

SOMETHING NEW IN ELECTIONS

Voters May Not Know What It Means When They Receive Three Ballots Next Fall.

FIRST TIME IN SIX YEARS

All Trustees Will Retire at End of Current Year Because of Act of Legislature.

The voters of Rush county, at the general election next November, for the first time in six years, will have to give consideration to three ballots—the state, the county and the township.

There has been no township ballot since the general election of 1908. The general assembly of 1911 passed a bill which had the effect of extending the terms of all township officers then serving two years.

Under the old law, the township trustees and township assessors elected in 1908, would have retired on January 1, 1913. The trustees and assessors were before the legislature of 1911 with a bill asking for an increase in their salaries. The legislature failed to pass this bill, but, as a compromise gave both the trustees and assessors an extension of two years on their terms. The act applies to all township trustees and township assessors in the state.

The law creating the extension reads as follows: "Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Indiana, that the time for holding the election of township trustees and assessors, shall be changed from the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1912, to the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1914; and at the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of every fourth year thereafter."

It is made plain by the concluding clause of the act that trustees and assessors elected this year are not to have six-year terms. Hereafter trustees and assessors will serve only four years.

In addition to electing a trustee and an assessor next fall, each township will elect three members of a township advisory board, the terms of all township councilmen expiring January 1, 1915.

BOYS READY FOR SHORT COURSE

Dozen Rush County Youths Will Soak up Lots of Valuable Instruction Next Week.

TO BE AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY

Winners of Peoples Trust Co., Corn Contest Will Attend All of the Special Lectures.

Farmers, poultrymen, horticulturists, stockmen, corn growers and home makers from all over Indiana will attend the annual farmers' short course at Purdue university next week, but there will not be a more interested delegation than the one from Rush county, which, for the most part, will be composed of boys.

Twelve boys, one from each township, will go to the short course as the guests of the Peoples Loan & Trust Company, with all expenses paid. The boys were the winners in the corn contest held by the trust company a few weeks ago. A tree scholarship was awarded the winner in each township and a grand prize of $25 in gold was awarded to Oren F. Veatch of Walker township for the best over all.

The boys who will compose the party will be: Wayne Daubenspeck of Union township, Melvin Cole of Washington, Raymond Fair of Rushville, Lytle Power of Anderson, Ralph Jones, Jackson, Oren F. Veatch of Walker, Merle Piper of Orange, Thomas Hufferd of Posey, Worth Pitts of Ripley, Harold Beaver of Noble, Ophir Gwinup of Richland, and Randolph Webster of Center.

C. M. George, county superintendent of the schools, one or two officials of the trust company and the parents of some of the boys will be included in the party. They expect to realize much good from the week of practical instruction on the best method in farming.

Any person desiring to take the course of lectures may do so by registering and obtaining a registration tag. No admission or tuition fee is required. The only expense attached is the cost of living during the week. The agriculture of Purdue university will be assisted in the work of the week by a corps of over fifty special lecturers from all parts of the middle west.

Two more men were located in the entry pit badly burned but still alive. Rescue parties were working vigilantly to penetrate the mine farther in the search for victims. They believe that not more than eight miners were hurt.

They also agreed on a weekly scale for apprentices of from $3 to $5 a week. ## GRAND JURY TO PROBE CHARGES

Called Today at Terre Haute by Judge C. M. Fortune to Investigate New Mayor's Acts.

JOE ROACH MAKES THE CHARGE

Says There Was a Corrupt Conspiracy to Dismiss Two City Policemen.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—A special grand jury to probe the charges of corrupt conspiracy against the new mayor, Donn M. Roberts, was today ordered by Judge C. M. Fortune of the Vigo circuit court to be drawn tomorrow. The grand jury will go into session Monday.

Attorney Joe Roach, who, in obtaining a restraining order for two policemen against discharge by Mayor Roberts, made the charges of corrupt conspiracy, was appointed special prosecutor to have charge of the investigation. Henry N. Spaan, a noted lawyer of Indianapolis, was mentioned as likely to be engaged as a special prosecutor also.

The fact that Crawford Fairbanks, millionaire backer of Mayor Roberts, left for Jamaica a week in advance of his announced schedule, is taken here to mean that Roberts can not count on the support of the wealthy brewer any longer.

TO ELECT MARSHAL.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]
Knightstown, Ind., Jan. 9.—A meeting of the town board will be held next Monday night to elect a town marshal as Lewis Ramsey, a Democrat, elected last fall, has refused to qualify, as he thinks the salary too small. It is probable that a Republican will be appointed to fill that place as the town board is of that political complexion.

WEAK KIDNEYS OFTEN THE RESULT OF OVERWORK

On several occasions I have been unable to work and suffered severe pains in the back, due to my kidneys. I called on a doctor of Ripon, Wis., but received no relief.

I tried Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which gave me instant relief. I was then able to resume work. Swamp-Root is the only relief I can get from kidney disease which I am subject to in the spring of the year. I am writing this testimonial through my own free will that sufferers of kidney and bladder diseases will know of the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root. I recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root whenever I can and always have a bottle of Swamp-Root in my home.

I purchased Swamp-Root of Mr. C. J. Burnside, Druggist, of 292 Main Street, Ripon, Wis.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS J. LYNCH.
225 Newbury Street, Ripon, Wis.
I have read the above statement that Thomas J. Lynch bought Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root at my store and made oath the above statement is true in substance and fact.
E. J. Burnside,
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1911.

"Back to Farm" Excuse.

When Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, said a few days ago "all sorts of evils of immoral character attend city life the world over," he said what everyone who is informed must admit. "The great cities of the world," he said, "are all the time affording the means of their own destruction. It is not practicable to bring up children in the big cities because of the moral dangers that exist in them."

These words only point out the dangers; but Dr. Eliot does not leave us without suggesting the need of seeking a remedy for existing evils. "If men of foresight and intelligence," he continues, "do not find the remedy, I foresee a terrible physical, within the next 100 years, similar to that existing in the English factory cities today. We must struggle against it."

These facts, then, afford ample excuse for the many movements under way to keep young people in the country and on the farms. These movements demand the most enthusiastic support and the wisest direction. To the citizens of rural communities this means that they must improve conditions and increase the opportunities and attractions of rural life until they are such as to offset those now thought to be afforded by the city.

War and Peace.

The year of 1913 has been one of international strain and turmoil. The bright hopes entertained a few years ago of the final passing of international bloodshed have been roughly shocked. The year made a tragic and deadly addition to history in the war among the Balkan allies. While it closed with peace accomplished, yet all feel that it is merely a stopping for breath.

In our own continent, anarchy has ruled in Mexico, and the end is not in sight. The world staggers under the burden of costly armament. It is perhaps the greatest single cause of high cost of living today. Yet while the great powers of Europe decline to treat with each other on the business-like basis of peaceful diplomacy, there can be no disarming.

The one bright spot in all this carnage of blood, is that cruel old Turkey was driven out of lands she had terrorized and exhausted for 500 years. And it must be that there are internal forces of business and conservatism even in Mexico that will soon demand that the nation cease destroying its own resources.

They are stopping Uncle Sam's face down in the Mexican theifers but the old gentleman still refuses to fight with refractory infants.

PREPARES FOR
EMERGENCIES

United States Orders 400 Marines in Panama to the East Coast of Mexico.

WHAT THIS MAY INDICATE

Wilson Administration Plans More
Aggressive Policy in Mexican
Affairs, it is Believed.

Washington, Jan. 9.—A more aggressive policy on the part of the Wilson administration in dealing with the Mexican situation is indicated in an order issued by the secretary of the navy, who has ordered that 400 marines stationed on the Isthmus of Panama be transferred to the east coast of Mexico.

The announcement of this doubling of the force of marines strengthened the growing impression that the administration is preparing for the adoption of a practical policy to take the place of the present attitude of waiting for President Huerta to yield to the desire of President Wilson for his elimination from the scene. Complying with suggestions made by President Wilson, little has been heard in congress for months about Mexico. Lately members of congress have expressed impatience over the administration's Mexican policy.

That the ordering of the marines to the east coast of Mexico was decided upon short notice was obvious from the fact that the battleship Minnesota, which left for Mexico early in the week is to be deflected from her present course by wireless and will proceed instead to Colon, Panama. There she will take on board the 400 marines and convey them to Vera Cruz, where they will be distributed among the battleships at that point and at Tampico. The total force of the marines on the east coast of Mexico available for landing parties at short notice will be about 550 men, there being about 450 already present on the ships. On Saturday of this week, however, all battleships now in commission and not either in dock or already in Mexico, will sail for Porto Rico for the annual winter war games and exercises. The fleet will co-operate with a marine force now enroute there, which consists of about 2,000 men, or practically all those available for such duty on the Atlantic coast.

The impression has been growing here that John Lind made a pessimistic report on conditions in Mexico on the occasion of his recent conference at sea with President Wilson. Private advices received from Vera Cruz and elsewhere in Mexico from time to time have tended to indicate that Lind was beginning to hold views on Mexico and the duty of the United States more like those of Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, than those of the president and Secretary Bryan.

PREPARING FOR AN ATTACK

Villa's Forces Again Gathering Before
Belcaugured City.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 9.—Pancheo Villa and his rebel reinforcements, with ample ammunition, have passed through Lamula Pass. The rebel general is preparing to renew the attack on Ojinaga, but just when the attack will start is uncertain.

The federals sent out skirmishers in the direction of the rebel camp upon receiving a report that the rebels were advancing. The rebels have sent nearly a hundred wounded to this side of the river. This forced the rebel officers to appeal for more help. Colonel Chally, a federal commander, who died in the hospital here, declared that his own men shot him on the battlefield.

That the rebels received a severe setback when they withdrew on Monday is an established fact. The federals from their intrenched position did great damage to the rebel ranks, besides capturing some of the rebel artillery. The rebels wasted much of their ammunition and the capture by the federals of two auto loads of munitions of war was really what forced the rebel artillery to quit the siege of Ojinaga until it could get more supplies.

General Mancilla of the federal forces, who because of illness, came to this side and surrendered to United States troops, came without arms and will return to Ojinaga as soon as he convalesces. He may be permitted to go to El Paso for a time. Eight other federal generals are left in Ojinaga. The rebels have not yet commenced any aeroplane scouting, although they declare they have smuggled one over the river. They say it will be used to drop bombs on Ojinaga when the battle reopens, but their work of this character at Guayamas was a failure.

POINTS TO VALUE OF OWNERSHIP

S. W. Bookhart of Washington Has Embryonic Organization Looking
to Control of Utilities.

MOVEMENT IS NATION-WIDE

Purpose of Organization is Investigation,
Not Agitation.—To Learn Facts First.

Washington, Jan. 9.—A state-wide organization and expansion later into a nation-wide movement for government ownership of the great public service corporations notably the railroads and the telephone and telegraph, is to be planned here within a few days. S. W. Brookhart, of Washington, is in charge of the embryonic organization. The fact that the movement is to become nation-wide, and that the association will delve into every phase of the government ownership plan is of deepest interest to everyone. Col. Brookhart today explained his organization plans in the following article exclusively written for the United Press:

BY S. W. BROOKHART.

The purpose of this organization, is investigation and not agitation. It will first learn the facts and then give them publicity. It believes the American people are entitled to know the truth about both sides of the great questions of public ownership of public utilities. Its scope will not be limited to the railroads, but it will include all public utilities. In fact, the first and only active steps its members have already taken are for the investigation of government ownership of telegraph and telephones. Municipal utilities will receive immediate attention, and the great question of government ownership of the railroads in all its phases will be divided and classified, and assigned to different members for investigation and report.

The need of an organization of this kind is apparent to every thoughtful person. Already private ownership has many organizations and many organs that give great and constant publicity to the advantages of private ownership. This information is exceedingly partisan. It often omits so much of the truth, or adopts a construction so foreign to the real facts, that it positively misleads or deceives public thought. Immense sums of money are spent in disseminating this class of literature all over the United States, and there is no organization anywhere to combat it or present the whole truth.

It has been said that the transportation question has never been settled anywhere in the world except by public ownership. It is likewise said that it is a settled question in every country of the world where public ownership prevails. It is also true that public ownership does prevail in three-fourth of the countries of the world. England and the United States are the only countries of the first class not adopting it. These facts, together with the further fact that the railroads are constantly demanding increased rates, in spite of the enormous increase in business, have presented the question of government ownership to the American people as a live issue. They are a careful and a cautious people. They will not advance in the dark. Up to the present time, they only have glimpses of the light.

Occasionally a great railroad man like D. F. Yoakum of the Frisco admits they would save 200 million dollars per year upon the item of interest alone. Then they say, if the government is so much better than the credit of private corporations why not capitalize all the railroads on this good credit and save all the net earnings and all the unearned increment which, added to the interest saving, would amount to more than 600 dollars per year? Is private ownership earning this heavy toll?

Having once adopted the interrogation point as an emblem, the American people are now beginning to ask many questions. If private ownership is the only efficient method of handling transportation, why is it necessary to organize inside parasite companies to transact the express business, the sleeping car business, the oil tank car business and the refrigerator car business. In the countries of government ownership, they are not needed. If rates have been lowered all over the world by government ownership, why would they not be lowered in the United States? If government ownership has improved the condition of labor all over the world, why would it not do the same in our country? If government ownership has improved the condition of service all over the world, what would prevent it from doing the same under our flag? If government ownership has accelerated the development of every industry in all the other countries why not here? If government ownership has increased the safety to life and limb throughout all the world, why not in this country? If government ownership has divorced the railroad business from politics in every country that has adopted it, why not in the United States.

These are some of the questions which this organization will undertake to answer. It will draw its information from every country in the world, and it will speak the truth. It will make mistakes, but it will always stand ready to correct them. It will decline to treat this as a partisan political question.

RUN DOWN FOR YEARS

Strength Restored by Vinol.

Strength and even life itself depends upon nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good the whole body suffers.

Mrs. C. W. Bushy of Monksville, W. Va., says: "For years I was in a weakened, run-down condition, and I could not find anything that would help me. Vinol was recommended and I tried it. Before I finished the first bottle I was better. I continued its use and am as well as ever. I have gotten several neighbors to take Vinol with the same result."

We know the great power of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, in building up all weakened, run-down persons, and for chronic coughs, colds and pulmonary trouble, and that is why we guarantee to return your money if it does not help you. ## CHAPTER XVI. An Awakening.

HE was in no more satisfactory frame of mind when, on the next afternoon, he shouldered his gun and set out for the country. He went directly to the fairy pool, and waited there in a very fever of anxiety. Despite the coolness and peace of the place, he felt his pulses throb and his face burn. If she came, it would mean everything to him. If she stayed away—why, then he would have to believe that after all the real Gertrudis Garavel had spoken last night at the opera. The sound of a voice shot through his troubled thoughts like a beam of sunlight through a dark room.

"Oh, Senor Antonio! How you startled me!"

Instantly his self possession came back. He felt relieved and gay.

"Good afternoon, queen!" He rose and bowed politely. "I thought I saw one underneath the waterfall just now."

"Who would have expected you to be here?" she cried, with an extreme and obviously counterfeit amazement that filled him with delight.

"I'm lost," he declared; then, after one look into her eyes, he added, "Absolutely, utterly, irretrievably lost. Won't you sit down?"

"Oh, Senor Antonio! How you startled me."

"Since we have met quite by accident, perhaps it would not be so very improper," she laughed mischievously and settled uncertainly beside him like a butterfly just alighting, ready to take flight again on the instant.

"Perhaps I can help you to find your way, senor?" she said, with ingenuous politeness.

"You are the only one who can, Miss Garavel. I don't know that I ever told you, but I'm in love."

"Indeed?"

"I am the most miserably happy person in the world, for I have just this moment begun to believe that the young lady likes me a little bit."

"Oh! But I forgot—the real reason why I came. I have something I must tell you."

"All right. But honestly now, didn't you want to come?"

She turned upon him in a little burst of passion. "Yes!" she cried. "Of course I did! I wished to come, madly, senor. It makes my heart putter, like that!"—she made her little fingers "patter"—"to be wooed even by a Yankee. But I do not love you in the least. Oh no! Even if I wished to do so, there are too many reasons why I could not, and when I explain you will understand."

"Ah, it is not too sure! He is of fine family, he is rich, he is handsome. Not possibly could I care for any man who was not all of those. All my life I have thought him a very sweet gentleman, and for a long time it has been agreed that I should be his wife. There are so many reasons why I should say yes."

"You haven't mentioned any that would be binding in law."

"My father's wish. Is not that sufficient?"

"You disregarded that once."

"That was but a flutter. All the time

I knew I should be Ramon's wife when the time arrived. Perhaps I could refuse to wed a man my father chose for me, but no nice Spanish girl would dare to wed a man her father did not like. Do you see?"

"But it's no cinch your father won't positively hunger for me once we get chummy."

"You are too different, you disregard our customs, you are bold. You continue to come here against my wishes, which no Spanish gentleman would dare to do."

"Oh, I'm no Spanish gentleman. I'm just an emotional blond. But I'm bound to marry you. Let's arrange the details. Shall it be a church wedding?"

She laughed deliciously. "What a nice game it is we have played! But now I must talk seriously."

She checked him gravely. "Truly it was just a game, and yet it was not altogether so either. But here is what I came to say. The strangest thing has happened. Not until last night after the opera did I even dream of it, and even now I cannot believe. Oh, I am so proud! Coming home from the theater my father told me—oh, the most wonderful thing. I promised very faithfully not to tell, so—he is to be the next president—of—Panama."

"Pres?"—Anthony stared at her in frank amazement. "Why, I thought Old Man Alfarez?"

"It seems your country does not like him because he hates Americans—see? Now that you know the truth you must see at once that by no means could I marry to a person like you."

"Why not?"

"Oh! Don't you understand? I shall be the finest lady in the republic. All the men will adore me. I will have suitors—not one or two as now, but many. My father will be the most famous man of all the republic—perhaps in the whole world, I don't know."

"I don't think it will make any difference with him when he knows who I am. I'll tickle your father, and I'll promise to vote for him."

"You are very funny." She gazed at him seriously, one tiny foot curled under her, her chin nestling into her palm.

"Do you love me?"

"Not one single speck. I merely like you to make love at me and cause my heart to jump."

The little hypocrite continued to voice words of warning and denial, though her eyes invited him, and for a long time they continued this delightful play of pleading and evasion. But at last Chiquita jumped up with a great appearance of alarm.

"Heavens, the time!" she cried. "I have stayed too long by much. Stephanie will miss me."

He rose and stretched out his hand as if to hold her.

"Shall I come again tomorrow?"

She grew suddenly earnest.

"No, no, senor. That is something you should not ask. If ever we are to meet again it must be with my father's consent. Please! Do not urge, for truly I would have to refuse." She let her palm rest in his an instant, and her cheek went scarlet as he pressed it to his lips. Then she said: "Go, Mr. Brazen One. How greatly it surprised me to find you here I cannot say. It gave me such a start! And, Senor Antonio—my father may be found any day at his bank." Before he could detain her she was gone, flitting up the path with just one flashing smile of mischief over her shoulder.

Anthony went home with his head in the clouds. All his doubts were now at rest; for while Chiquita had stubbornly denied him all encouragement, he felt sure that her heart had answered. It was in the highest spirits, therefore, that he opened a letter he found awaiting him and read as follows:

Dear Kirk—I hope you are heartily sick of yourself and ready to do something decent for a change. Knowing your aristocratic habits as I do, I realize you must owe a lot of money by this time, and your new friends must be getting tired of you. I have been expecting you to draw on me daily and am taking this occasion to warn you in your own expensively acquired college English that "there is nothing doing"—except upon one condition. If you will agree to behave yourself in future I will pay your debts, send you west and give you a job as operator at $10 a month. But you will go where I send you, and you will stay where you are put. I will do the thinking for both of us and judge of your associates. Maybe if you prove to be any good at all I will arrange with the police to let you spend your vacations in "that dear New York" which still shows signs of your red paint brush. I would be pleased to have an apology by return mail, so that I may meet you in New Orleans and start you off once more on the road to decency and self respect. You will never be a success at anything, but I am always ready to do my duty. This is my last offer, and if you refuse you may distinctly and definitely go to the devil. As ever your loving father, DARWIN K. ANTHONY.

P. S.—I can get good operators for $30 a month. The extra $10 is pure sentiment.

Spurred by his present exhilaration, Kirk wrote an answer, which he read with a good deal of satisfaction before sealing it up:

Dear Dad—Your affectionate letter with the kind offer to take charge of a siding out in the Dakotas is at hand. I would like to help you along with your business, but "Upward and Onward" is my motto, and you'll have to raise that salary a bit. I am drawing $25 a month at present.arters furnished and promotion promised. I have made some good investments, and there are no debts to settle. Inclosed find my last bank statement, which will doubtless prove a great disappointment to you.

If you need a good master of transportation I would be pleased to consider an offer at any time, provided the salary is satisfactory, but your proposal to edit my acquaintances is out of the question. My decency and self respect are doing well, thank you, and I like the climate.

The salary would have to be about $5,000 a year. As always your devoted and obedient son, KIRK.

P. S.—I would not care to locate farther west than Buffalo. My wife might not like it.

Kirk lost no time in calling at the

bank, but was disappointed to learn that Senor Andres Garavel had left the city for an unexpected business tour of the provinces and would not return for at least two weeks.

In the days that followed he saw nothing of Gertrudis, but a great deal of Edith Cortlandt. She had redeemed her promise of getting him a good horse—something rare in this country—and he was grateful for the exercise, which came as a welcome relief from his indoor toil. Soon their old friendly intercourse was going on as if it had never been interrupted.

As for Edith, this semipublic intimacy came to be quite as much a pain as a pleasure to her. During these past few weeks she had been plunged in a mental turmoil, the signs of which she had concealed with difficulty. She had fought with herself; she had tried to reason; she had marshaled her pride, but all in vain. At last she awoke to the terrifying certainty that she was in love with Kirk.

She began to look upon her husband with a quickened curiosity, and found him a stranger. For years she had made allowance for his weaknesses, ignoring them as she ignored his virtues, but never before had he appeared so colorless, so insignificant, above all so alien. She had barely tolerated him hitherto, but now she began to despise him.

If Cortlandt was aware of her change of feeling and its cause, his method of dealing with her showed some keenness. Silent contempt was what she could least endure from him of all men; yet this was just what his manner toward her expressed—it expressed anything.

Even if he did suspect, what then? It was no affair of his; she was her own mistress. She had given him all he possessed, she had made a man of him. He was her creature, and had no rights beyond what she chose to give. They saw less and less of each other. Only before others, or at their frequent political councils, were they quite the same as they had been.

Of Anthony, on the other hand, she arranged to see more than ever, flattering him by a new deference in her manner, making him feel always at ease with her. In their frequent rides they covered most of the roads about the city, even to the ruins of old Panama. Then they began to explore the bypaths and trails.

One afternoon they turned into an unfrequented road that led off to the jungle from the main highway, walking their horses while they marveled at the beauty of the foliage. They burst out into a rocky glen, where a spring of clear water bubbled forth.

"What a discovery!" exclaimed Edith. "Help me down, please. I'm going to drink."

Kirk dismounted and lent her a hand. The horses stood appreciatively, stepping forward, thrust their soft muzzles eagerly into the stream, then fell to browsing upon the tender leaves at their shoulders.

Edith quenched her thirst, shook the cramp from her limbs and said: "Some time we will have to see where this road leads. There may be more surprises beyond." She broke a flower from its stem and fastened it in Kirk's buttonhole while he gazed down at her with friendly eyes.

"You're looking awfully well lately," he declared.

Glancing up, she met his gaze and held it for an instant. Something in her look gave him a little thrill of embarrassment.

"I think I'll give Marquis and Gyp their dessert," he said, and, turning aside, began to gather a handful of the greenest leaves. The instant his eyes were off her she took the horses by their bridles, swung them about and with a sharp blow of her riding crop sent them snorting and clattering down the trail. Kirk wheeled barely in time to see them disappearing.

"Say, why did you do that?" he asked.

MINISTER TELLS HOW TO BE SAVED

Must Love God and Your Neighbor, According to Rev. S. C. Wicks of Indianapolis.

LIFE MUST BE UP TO LEVEL.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—“What shall I do to be saved?” This question is answered by the Rev. S. C. Wicks, Unitarian, whose sermonettes printed in the newspapers here join with the printed appeals of the Church Federation in an evangelistic movement remarkable in many ways.

“What do you love?” asks Rev. Wicks in reply. “Do you love God and your neighbor? Do you love truth and goodness and justice? Are you striving to bring your life up to these levels?”

“Then you are saved. You are not saved from some hell in a future life; you are not rewarded by a heaven at some future time. But you are saved from the hells of selfishness, hate, cruelty, injustice and lust. You have not entered a heaven, but a heaven has entered you.

“Each must find the truth for himself. No church, no creed, no book, no teacher can think for us. Truth is not given. It must be earned.”

NOW LOOK FORWARD TO CONVENTIONS

Political Gossip Turned to Congressional Fights Following Changes in City Administrations.

SOME OPPOSITION TO SEVERAL

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—With the sensations in the changes in city administrations this week out of the way, political gossip is turning to the congressional campaigns next fall. The nominating conventions will come much earlier and even before convention time the fight for place will be pretty hot.

Two Indiana Democratic congressmen have forceful opposition for re-nomination—William A. Cullip of Vincennes and Finly Gray of Connersville. There have been hints also of opposition to Congressman Henry A. Barnhart of Rochester. W. E. Cox of Jasper and Charles Lieb of Rockport. But Barnhart is well thought of at Washington and is regarded as one of the leaders of the Indiana delegation. And Democratic leaders in the third and first districts seem to be strong for Cox and Lieb, respectively.

The remainder of the thirteen Indiana Democratic congressmen are apparently moving along smoothly to re-nominations. The state organization of the Democratic party, in most every case backing the present congressmen, has aided them in securing a re-nomination by setting early dates for the nominating conventions. This was notable in the case of Representative Charles A. Korbly, whose brother, Bernard Korbly, state Democratic chairman, called the Seventh district convention to meet here tomorrow.

PLACES BURDEN ON PROPRIETOR

Supreme Court Finds True Weights and Measures Must be Used in Indiana Merchandising.

CASE WAS TO TEST NEW LAW

Proprietor Will Suffer Penalty if he Allows Deceptive Devices in His Place.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—The supreme court has reversed the Miami circuit court for instructing the jury to acquit Hugh McCaffrey of the charge of selling short measure of potatoes. The evidence was sufficient to show McCaffrey was owner of McCaffrey & Co. department store at Peru, and that Harvey G. Boyd bought potatoes in the store, ordering a peck and paying for a peck, although he only received eleven pounds of potatoes.

The court says “the proprietor of a store must know that no false weights or measures are being used in his business, and failing to do so must suffer penalty.” The court says that there being sufficient evidence from which the jury might have inferred that the defendant was owner of the store the question should have been left to the jury.

The case was prosecuted and appealed as a test of the new law requiring the sale of potatoes by weight, but the case coming up on a peremptory instruction to the jury, the supreme court only decided the matters presented for decision by the action of the trial court.

FINDING TO BE DEFERRED

It Will Be a Month Before Arbitration Decision Is Announced.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—It will be at least a month before the public service commission will be ready to announce its decision in the Indianapolis streetcar controversy, according to an estimate made by Chairman Duncan of the time which will be required to review the evidence and prepare a finding.

The final arguments of attorneys have been heard, but it is doubtful whether the commission, because of the work which has accumulated since the hearing began, Dec. 4, will give immediate consideration to the streetcar matter. Other business of importance must be disposed of first.

He said that up to this time no board of arbitration has outlined the principles which governed the reaching of its decisions, and he predicted that there will be a greater willingness to arbitrate industrial differences when reasonable assurances are given of the principles which are to be observed in the conduct of hearings.

Man Found Dying in Alley Probable Victim of Thugs.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—John Harvey, age forty-two; Earnest Loman, age twenty-six, and Ernest Linder, age twenty-five, were arrested in connection with the robbery and death of James W. Simpson, of Redkey, who was found dying in an alley here December 21. The police say that Loman confessed the three men robbed Simpson. He says that the robbery was committed in a saloon when it was found that Simpson had $200 in money, according to the police.

Simpson was first believed to have died of paralysis. Prosecutor Henneger will order the body of Simpson exhumed for post mortem examination. The police are inclined to believe “knockout drops” were given to Simpson and if analysis proves that a drug was used charges of murder will be placed against the three men.

MILROY MAN CAUGHT IN A RESORT RAID

Goldia Carr is Arrested Thursday Night in Indianapolis With Several Others.

ALL ARE RELEASED ON BOND

Special to the Daily Republica.: Indianapolis, Ind. Jan. 9.—One of the four men arrested in a raid on an East Court street resort last night gave his name as Goldia Carr, Milroy, Indiana. Along with the men were arrested three women inmates and its keeper, Molly Grant, who is charged with conducting a resort. The four men and three women were charged with statutory offenses and all released on bond. Two of the women gave their addresses as that of the resort where they were caught and the other in North Illinois street. The information which caused the raid was furnished by a boy sixteen years old who said he had stayed all night at the house.

There is a man named Goldia Carr at Milroy. The Greensburg News recounts the fact that Thursday he passed through Greensburg on his way to Forest Hill to look after business on his farm. The News further says that Mrs. Carr, who has been in precarious health for some time, is slightly improved.

TALKS POLITICS TO CONGRESSMEN

Mrs. Mary Ritter Beard Leaves the Beaten Paths in Addressing Committee at Washington.

FORMERLY OF INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—Woman suffragists of Indiana are delighted at reports of the activity of Mrs. Mary Ritter Baird, daughter of the late Col. Eli Ritter of this city, in suffrage circles in the East. She is the wife of Prof. Charles A. Beard of Columbia university, New York City, and at the recent hearing before the house rules committee in Washington, made what the congressmen declare the most effective speech on the woman's appeal for the constitutional amendment.

Mrs. Beard left the beaten paths and made a "hit" with the congressmen by talking politics. She showed that the committee majority could not afford, as Democrats, to risk affronting the women voters in the suffrage states and the friends of the amendment in many other states by reporting adversely on the resolution submitting the amendment to the states.

That because the Senate suffrage committee had unanimously reported the resolution favorably, Mrs. Beard argued, the house could do no less or risk being called more reactionary than the senate. Popular election of senators, she pointed out, tended to equal the representative character of the two houses and the prestige of the lower house in popular esteem would be endangered by the committee's adverse action on the suffrage amendment.

STOCKHOLDERS TAKE THE CASE TO COURT

Big Stock Distribution Plan May Be Checked.

New York, Jan. 9.—In the supreme court suit has been filed by holders of 1,950 shares of preferred stock of the Union Pacific to enjoin the Union's proposed distribution of its Baltimore and Ohio stock to its common stockholders. The suit was filed immediately after the board of directors of the Union Pacific had ratified the executive committee recommendation for the stock distribution.

Court action against the proposed distribution of Union Pacific's $82,067,800 Baltimore and Ohio stock to holders of the common, excluding the preferred, was threatened as soon as the plan was announced. It has been expected by the directors.

Action is brought for a permanent injunction as well as a temporary injunction pending the hearing. It is based on the allegation that the Baltimore and Ohio stock of the Union Pacific represents capital investment of the company and fixed assets, not earnings. As such, it is claimed, the preferred stockholders are entitled to share in the distribution according to their right as provided in their agreement with the company to share equally with the common in any distribution of assets.

Other holders of preferred are invited to join the suit, though it is understood that the biggest holders of preferred stock will not take action against the proposed distribution to the common stockholders. Jacob S. Schiff and Mrs. E. H. Harriman are the largest holders of the preferred.

The offer has been taken advantage of in many places. By the arrangements made, a dairy expert will come from Purdue once a month and make the rounds of all owners of cows who wish to have an expert test made of each cow's milk and have her rations passed upon. Then at regular intervals the expert will submit a cost sheet for each cow showing just what it is costing to care for her and just what she is paying.

The only expense the farmer will incur for this service will be for taking the expert to the next man using his service and boarding him while he is at his farm. All bills for railroad fare hotel bills and similar expenses will be met by the extension department.

of conversion and now notice how Jesus wants us to confess Him.

"The Bible does not say anything about our wearing a button but the Bible does tell us how we are to confess Christ. It must be with the mouth. 'With the heart man believeth—with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.' 'Let God's redeemed say so.' But the New Testament recognizes a special service and a new relationship established in connection with confessing Christ. 'As many as believed were baptized and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.' Repentance for sin, forsaking of sin, a confession with the mouth a receiving of baptism and a uniting with the church are all recognized in connection with that which we call confessing Christ."

In speaking of the relation between the confessing of Christ and salvation the Rev. Mr. Jamieson declared that baptism is not a saving act and uniting with the church does not insure salvation of the soul. "There are doubtless unsaved people in all churches as there was an unsaved man in the little company of twelve that accompanied our Saviour," said the speaker.

"If you are unwilling to confess Christ, there is need that you take the first steps in getting right with God, for Jesus will not confess as His those who refuse to confess Him here and now. Following the confession Christ expects us to confess Him in daily life. You are not only required to make a good confession but to make your confession good."
